

MANUSCRIPT SUBMISSION GUIDELINES FOR PARALLÈLES

1. General guidelines

Journal Editorial Board and manuscript submission

For more information, please consult the Contact page on our website.

To submit a manuscript, please consult the Submissions section on our website. Manuscripts should be submitted in MS Word (.doc or .docx). Please use the document template we have provided ("Paralleles Word-template"), including styles.

Language

You may submit a manuscript in any of the following languages: English, French, German, Italian, or Spanish. You can choose any variety of the aforementioned languages (e.g., British English or American English), provided that you are consistent throughout the manuscript.

If the manuscript is written in a language that is not your mother tongue, we request that you have it reread by a native speaker before submitting it.

Article length

An article should be between 4,000 and 8,000 words (including the abstract, footnotes, bibliography and annexes, if applicable).

Abstract and keywords

Your manuscript should include – after the title and before the body text – a summary and a list of keywords in English. The summary should be 150-200 words long and the list should comprise no more than five keywords.

If your article is written in English, the heading of the abstract should simply be "Abstract". If the article is written in another language, the heading should be an English translation of the title of your article, followed by a dash and the word "Abstract" in italics.

Cover page

All manuscripts undergo a double-blind review process before publication. Authors are requested to delete all identifying information, both in the text and document properties. If you wish to cite some of your other publications in the text or bibliography of your manuscript, please replace the identifying reference with the initials “NN”. Authors must make sure that their manuscripts remain completely anonymous.

If your manuscript is accepted, you must submit a revised version that includes a cover page with the following information at the end of the article: your full name (including academic titles), institutional affiliation (university, research institute, etc.), email and full address of your institution. The cover page should also include a short biography written in the language of the article (50-100 words). In the revised version, you must also reinsert any identifying information you may have removed (in the text and/or bibliography).

2. Layout

Document template and styles

Please use the “Paralleles Word-template” document for the presentation of your manuscript, including styles.

3. Specific guidelines

Citations

Short citations should be included in the body of the text, using the style “P_Text”. Longer citations (more than three lines) should be presented on a new line and indented, without quotations marks, using the style “P_Quotation”.

Footnotes

In general, try not to use footnotes. When necessary, however, the notes must be placed at the foot of the page and must end with a period; a horizontal line should separate the body of the text and footer. The purpose of footnotes is to give additional information and references (e.g., acknowledgements at the beginning of the manuscript) or cross-references that cannot be integrated into the text (e.g., web addresses); they should not be used to provide bibliographic information (see section 6). The footnote should be placed before the punctuation mark (in particular before “,” “.” “:” and “;”); however, the footnote is placed after the punctuation mark when using quotation marks, an exclamation mark or a question mark.

Please use the “P_Footnote” style.

Figures and tables

All graphics (including figures and tables) should be accompanied by a descriptive caption. Captions should be centered beneath the graphic and numbered in the order in which they are intended to appear in the article, e.g., Figure 1, Figure 2, etc. or Table 1, Table 2, etc.

Graphics should be placed in the text as close to the reference as possible. Avoid making reference to the position of the graphic itself (e.g., “the figure below”). Instead, use the appropriate number reference. For instance: (see Figure 1).

For legends, please use the “P_Legend” style and put the word “Figure” or “Table” in bold, along with the number that accompanies it.

Numbering

If you wish to divide your text into several sections, please use the following numbering system:

- 1.
- 1.1.
- 1.1.1.

4. Quality control

We reserve the right to refuse a manuscript if:

- a) The article has been submitted or published elsewhere (in part or in whole).
- b) The author has not complied with our guidelines.
- c) The quality of language is unsatisfactory.

5. Proofreading

Authors will receive the article in PDF format before publication, and must ensure that it contains the final, approved text. They will have one week to carry out any formal corrections (spelling or punctuation mistakes). No major changes to the text will be accepted at this stage.

6. References in the running text

The names of authors and publication years must be mentioned again in each new paragraph. Abbreviations such as “ibid.” or “ibidem” will not be accepted. If a work is cited several times in a row within one and the same paragraph (no other works are cited in between), simply refer to the page cited, i.e., (p. 11) or (pp. 11-12) after the first complete reference (author, year, page). In accordance with the 7th edition of the APA manual, bibliographic references that appear in the running text should be inserted as follows:

One author

If the author is already mentioned in the text, simply insert the date in parentheses (2014). If you are referencing a direct or indirect quote, you should also include the applicable page number (2014, p. 2) or page numbers (2014, pp. 2-3).

If the author's name is not mentioned in the running text, please include it in the parentheses: (Mossop, 2014, p. 2) or (Mossop, 2014, pp. 2-3).

Two authors

If a work is written by two authors, systematically mention both authors in the running text: Cordingley and Montini (2015) or (Cordingley & Montini, 2015).

Three authors or more

If there are more than two authors, only mention the first author in the text, followed by “et al.”: Meier et al. (1999) or (Meier et al., 1999).

Multiple works

The various elements that appear between parentheses (author's name, date of publication, page numbers) should be separated by commas. When multiple works are cited, they should be separated by semicolons and cited in alphabetical order: (Arthern, 1983; Nord, 1999). When multiple works of a single author are cited, they should be listed by year (earliest first) and separated by commas: (Kade, 1961, 1964, 1965).

7. Bibliography

General guidelines

Bibliographic references should appear at the end of the article in a specific section. The bibliography should follow the American Psychological Association (APA, 7th edition) format. The bibliography should contain all the works cited and may only include the works cited in the article. Any other work that is not mentioned in the text should not be included in the bibliography.

For the presentation of your bibliography, please use the “P_Bibliography” style.

Multiple works by the same author in the same year:

If several publications by the same author have the same date, they should be listed in alphanumeric order by title.

Titles of works:

Use sentence case, i.e., capitalize only at the beginning, with proper nouns and after a colon:

Covert multilingualism: The case of the translation policy in France and Belgium during the French Revolution and the Napoleonic era.

Place of publication and name of publisher:

The place of publication is no longer required. Please only specify the name of the publisher.

Edition number:

If you would like to cite the edition number, you should do so in the language of the publication, as with the place of publication, for example, “2nd ed.” for publications in English and “2<sup>e</sup> éd.” for publications in French.

Edited volumes:

You can choose to use a generic term (e.g., in English, “Ed.” and “Eds.”) or the appropriate abbreviation in the language of the work being referenced (“dir.” for works in French, “Hrsg.” for works in German, etc.).

More than twenty authors or editors:

There should be no more than twenty names in the bibliographical reference. After the nineteenth author’s name, use an ellipsis (three dots) in place of the author names, then provide the final author’s name.

Websites:

In your bibliography, website references should be listed by the author's name; you may use a group author name in place of a person's name. They should also include the website name after the title of the page (unless it is the same as the author's name) and a hyperlink. Please only specify the date on which you consulted the site if the source material is unarchived (not stable) and may change over time (e.g., wikis or web pages). Other sources (e.g., journal or newspaper articles) do not require retrieval dates. The words "Retrieved from" are used before a URL only when a retrieval date is needed; otherwise, URLs are presented without a label. If a work has a DOI, present it as a hyperlink beginning with "https://doi.org/".
